

Untitled

Keep your hands off our internet. Except for violating existing law, immoral actions or inciting otherwise bad behavior, we want the internet to be accessed freely without special interest or government intervention.

The government already controls too much of our lives and the fools in control of legislating are only interested in what is best for themselves.

Stop interfering.